It is not possible to determine the exact date of the first appearance of the word "computer" in the English language. However, the word "computer" has been used in various contexts since the 17th century. In the 17th century, the word "computer" was used to refer to a person who calculated or counted. In the 18th century, the word "computer" was used to refer to a person who calculated or counted. In the 19th century, the word "computer" was used to refer to a person who calculated or counted. In the 20th century, the word "computer" was used to refer to a person who calculated or counted. In the 21st century, the word "computer" is used to refer to a person who calculates or counts.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group remained sedentary. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The HR and EE were significantly higher in the training group than in the control group at the end of the 10-week program. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

1. The first part of the report is a general introduction to the subject of the study. It discusses the importance of the problem and the objectives of the research. It also mentions the scope of the study and the methods used.

2. The second part of the report is a detailed description of the experimental setup. It includes a list of the equipment used, a description of the test procedures, and a discussion of the data collected. This part is the most important part of the report as it provides the evidence for the conclusions.

3. The third part of the report is a discussion of the results of the study. It compares the findings with the objectives of the research and discusses the implications of the results. It also mentions any limitations of the study and suggests areas for further research.

4. The fourth part of the report is a conclusion. It summarizes the main findings of the study and states the overall conclusions. It also mentions any recommendations for further research.

5. The fifth part of the report is a list of references. It includes all the sources of information used in the study, such as books, articles, and reports.

Went to the bank and deposited the money.

Also went to the post office and

sent a letter to my mother.

Everything went smoothly.

Will be home
tomorrow.

1920 CENSUS—INDEX
DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a control group or an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group did not exercise. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness than the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The exercise group had significantly higher levels of aerobic fitness, muscular strength, and muscular endurance than the control group. The exercise group also had significantly higher levels of body composition, including lower body fat percentage and higher lean body mass. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
